

S/L: Peeing at night? Maybe it's not your prostate?

Dear Reader,

Do you have to get up to pee multiple times a night?

If so, you might think you've got a problem with your prostate.

Maybe your doctor told you that's where the problem is.

But, when he prescribed you a solution — like saw palmetto or one of the other popular prostate treatments — the problem didn't go away.

Well, there might be a simple reason why...

That's right: According to some research out of Vanderbilt University, the medical world has been overlooking a key cause of nighttime peeing.

One that's easy to fix.

S/L: A breakthrough in Parkinson's?

Dear Reader,

As you may know, Parkinson's disease is caused by a deficiency in a neurotransmitter called dopamine.

But what if there was a way to increase dopamine levels...AND stop the further destruction of dopamine-producing cells?

And do so without any of the nasty side-effects you get from popular Parkinson's drugs?

In other words, what if there was a way to actually reverse Parkinson's?

Well, it turns out that there is a way. And I stumbled upon it when I read a journal article by a brilliant named Marty Hinz.

S/L: Is your protein shake making you fat?

Preview: Why most powders build fat, rather than muscle

Dear Reader,

If you drink protein shakes, you probably think you're doing something healthy.

But the reality is somewhat different...

Let me explain...

As you may know, when you consume protein, your body breaks down those proteins into amino acids. And then it turns those aminos into protein.

Except...

It only turns SOME of those amino acids into protein.

The rest?

They turn into glucose. And that glucose is either burned, or stored as fat.

And here's the kicker: when you consume protein powder, a staggering 83% of the aminos turn to glucose!

That includes protein powders made from soy, dairy, and even eggs.

But, with one simple change, you can cut it from 83%...down to just 1%.

S/L: "I used Rogaine for 8 months and didn't grow a single hair"

Preview: Frustrated with hyped-up hair products that don't deliver?

Dear Reader,

I hear this all the time.

Patients who have tried “big name” hair restoration products and...nuthin’.

Or even worse: they experienced Rogaine’s infamous “dread shed” — where your hair falls out initially and is supposed to grow back — and their hair NEVER grew back...

...Leaving them even balder than when they started!

Fortunately, there’s an alternative.

One that, in scientific tests...

Worked for EVERY SINGLE PERSON who tried it.

Increased hair thickness by an AVERAGE of 246%. That’s 3.5x as much hair in your thinning areas.

And it’s 100% natural — so no weird chemical smell, and no scalp itching or burning.

S/L: "I can't believe my hair just came back, I thought it was gone forever"

Preview: Finally: a safe and effective solution to hair loss

Dear Reader,

Did you know...

There's a region in Mongolia where their hair grows so long, thick and luscious...

That they cut it off and sell it to Americans.

That's where most of the natural hair extensions sold in America come from.

Their secret?

A rare nutrient in their diet.

A nutrient that, in a recent Harvard study...

Increased hair thickness for EVERY SINGLE PATIENT.

That's right, unlike most hair loss treatments, this has been shown to work for everyone.

Not only that, but the AVERAGE increase in hair thickness was a staggering 246% in the treated area.

(Click to enable images.)

And now this nutrient has become available in America.

P.S. Because this nutrient is only found in Mongolia, it's difficult to source in large quantities.

So our supplies often run out.

Subject line: How to get the benefits of Keto - while still eating carbs

Have you tried the keto diet?

If so, how long did you last? If you're like most people, you probably gave up quite quickly.

That's because, while keto diets provide many incredible health benefits, they also come with a lot of negative side effects. Side effects like:

- *Bad breath
- *Fatigue
- *Constipation
- *Headaches
- *Reduced Physical Performance
- *Brain Fog
- *Muscle Cramps
- *Strong Sugar Cravings

And, of course, perhaps the biggest of all... which is all the delicious foods you have to give up.

But what if there was a supplement you could take that would put your body in ketosis - burning fat for fuel - while you continue to eat carbs?

Sounds too good to be true?

Well it isn't - all thanks to a little-known "super fat."

This fat - which we've turned into a powder so it can be mixed in with your coffee or your morning smoothie - lets you reap so many of the benefits of the Keto Diet without eliminating carbs from your diet.
